the conquest of new spain is the first person narrative of bernal d az del castillo 1492 1581 the 16th century military adventurer conquistador and colonist settler who served in three mexican expeditions those of francisco hern ndez de c rdoaba 1517 to the yucat n peninsula the expedition of juan de grijalva 1518 and the expedition of hern n cort s 1517 in the valley of mexico the history relates his participation in the fall of emperor moctezuma ii and the subsequent defeat of the aztec empire in the colonial history of latin america the conquest of new spain is a vivid military account that establishes bernal d az del castillo among chroniclers what daniel defoe is among novelists late in life when d az del castillo was eighty four years old and residing in his encomienda estates in guatemala he wrote the true history of the conquest of new spain to defend the story of the common soldier conquistador within the histories about the spanish conquest of mexico he presents his narrative as an alternative to the critical writings of fr bartolom de las casas whose indian native histories emphasized the cruelty of the conquest and the histories of the hagiographic biographers of hern n cort s specifically that of francisco l pez de g mara whom he believed minimized the role of the 700 enlisted soldiers who were instrumental to conquering the aztec empire that said historians and hagiographers speak the truth neither in the beginning nor the middle nor the end is why d az del castillo strongly defended the actions of the conquistadors whilst emphasising their humanity and honesty in his eyewitness narrative which he summarised as we went there to serve god and also to get rich the history is occasionally uncharitable about captain cortés because like other professional soldiers who participated in the conquest of new spain daz del castillo found himself among the ruins of tenochtitlán only slightly wealthier than when he arrived to mexico a financial state common to many soldiers who accused cortés of taking more loot than his agreed fifth of the aztec treasury certainly the land and gold compensation paid to many of the conquistadores proved a poor return for their investment of months of soldiering and fighting across mexico and the anahuac valley another interpretation of the conquest of new spain proposes that the author was one of several family relatives of diego velázquez de cuellar the governor of cuba and mortal enemy of cortés many of whom later plotted against the conquistador captain although the narrative thrust diminishes the cortés daz del castillo relationship contrary to the factual record his complex relationship with cortés and the subordinate captains suggests that although he represented the faction of governor velázquez de cuellar in the expedition bernal daz del castillo fully honoured his personal and military loyalty to hernán cortés
